Multi-disciplinary Artist

About me

Hello! I'm Caroline!

I'm a graphic designer with a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Houston. I am a multi-disciplinary artist who loves to create freely with self expression, developing strategies to reach all ages and markets. I also enjoy creating eye-catching social media posts and learning more about the ever-changing world of SEOs.

When I'm not working, I'm reading, watching movies and shows, designing for fun, working out, and hanging out with friends and family. I believe that having a life outside of work is critical to staying inspired and energized.

OUR SERVICES

Custom Homes and Barndominiums

When it comes to building on your land, no style of architecture is out of our expertise. However, we do specialize in building modern farmhouses and barndominiums. We excel at blending raw commercial/industrial materials with upscale residential finishes. Hidden pantries and primary closets, wet rooms completely behind glass, and butler spaces are a standard.

Spec Homes

We are currently building spec homes with 1-3 acre lots in central east Texas. The average total covered square footage starts at 3,000 sq.ft. We prefer to offer beautiful homes in more rural, desirable parts of the county.

losing control

While working in Adobe Illustrator and experimenting with the color palette of this piece, I chose to utilize complimentary colors to accent all aspects of the work. The spiral down the center and the letters slowly fading into the darkness indicates how losing control in any situation can make one feel.

take it all in

While things can seem beyond our control and hectic, there is always room to take a deep breath and fill ourselves with the good things around us. As a reminder to myself, and to all of us, I choose to create a composition in Adobe Illustrator including what the good things are around me and a reminder to enjoy the little things and little moments.

we're all just winging it

Sometimes in life it feels like the only right thing to do is wing it and hope it all turns out okay and that is what I wanted to portray in this work. Within Adobe Illustrator, I exhibited this feeling through a blur of words and an exploding outline that symbolize how times can feel overwhelming so winging it is the best option.

it's ok to not be ok

After getting a brain scan done, I was inspired by the patterns as well as what they meant in regard to myself and my brain. Because of this, I went into Adobe Illustrator and demonstrated the brain waves outlined by the text that I felt appropriate in regard to how one feels about their state.

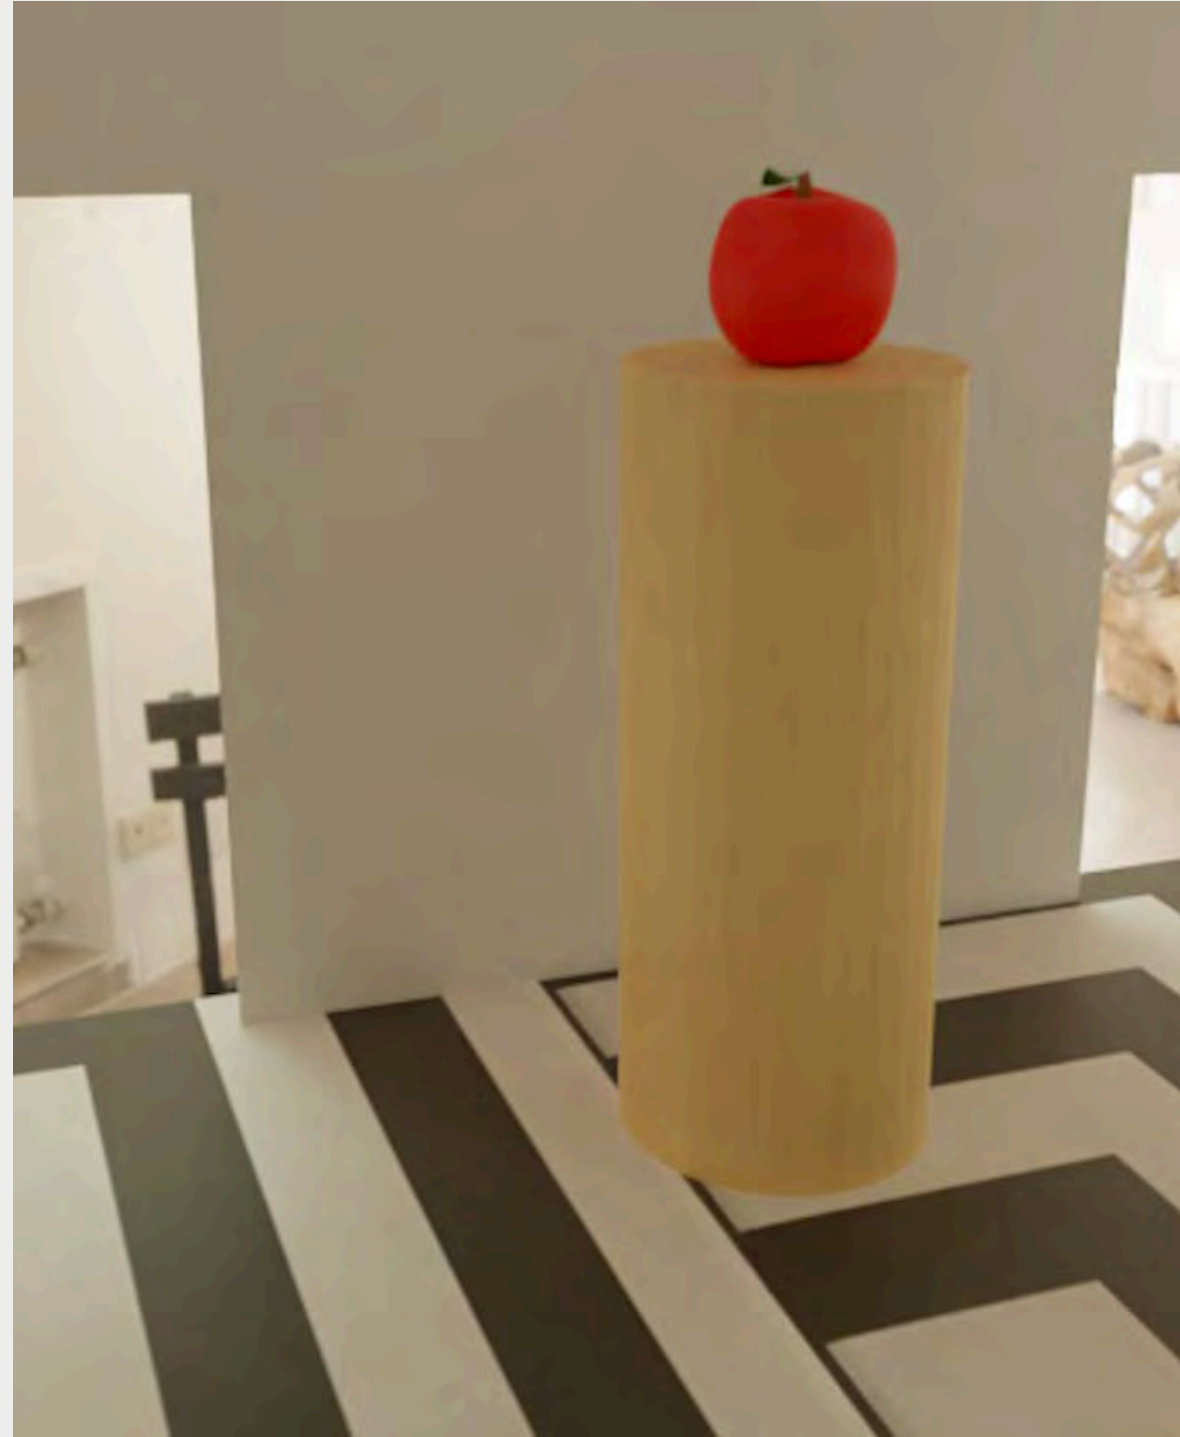

i always dream of you

Whether someone was meant to be or not, we cannot help but think of them from time to time. While having this overwhelming thought, I designed this piece in Adobe Illustrator to illustrate this exact feeling.
